With a focus on risk mitigation and human-centered design, the AHFE 2024 conference will delve into a wide range of topics, including:

- Industrial safety
- Healthcare safety
- Transportation safety
- Ergonomics
- Human factors in design
- Risk assessment and management
- Human error prevention
- Safety culture
- Human-computer interaction
- Cognitive engineering

The AHFE 2024 conference will bring together a global community of experts, including researchers, practitioners, and policymakers, to share their latest findings, best practices, and innovative solutions for improving safety and enhancing human well-being. The proceedings of the conference will capture the collective knowledge and insights of these experts, offering a valuable resource for anyone involved in the field of safety management and human factors.

Here are some highlights of the upcoming proceedings:

- Over 500 peer-reviewed research papers covering the latest advancements in safety management and human factors

- Contributions from leading experts in the field from around the world
- A comprehensive overview of the current state of research and practice in safety management and human factors
- Insights into emerging trends and future directions for research and application
- A valuable resource for professionals, researchers, and students in the field of safety management and human factors

The AHFE 2024 International Conference on Safety Management and Human Factors is a must-attend event for anyone interested in the latest advancements in this critical field. The proceedings of the conference will be an invaluable resource for years to come.
