On the fateful night of November 26, 2008, the world watched in horror as the iconic Taj Mahal Palace Hotel in Mumbai, India, became the target of a brutal terrorist attack. For 68 harrowing hours, guests and staff were held hostage as terrorists rampaged through the hotel, killing and injuring hundreds.

Among the survivors of that night was Ashish Kaul, a guest who was staying at the Taj Hotel with his family. In his gripping book, The Siege: 68 Hours Inside the Taj Hotel, Kaul provides a firsthand account of the horrors he witnessed that night.

Kaul's book is a riveting and deeply personal account of the Mumbai attacks. He vividly describes the chaos and fear that reigned inside the hotel as the terrorists struck. He recounts the stories of other survivors, including the heroic staff who risked their own lives to save guests.

The Siege is more than just a story of survival. It is also a powerful indictment of the terrorism that continues to plague our world. Kaul's book is a reminder that we must never forget the victims of terrorism and that we must always stand up to those who seek to divide us.

If you are looking for a gripping and thought-provoking read, I highly recommend The Siege: 68 Hours Inside the Taj Hotel. This book will stay with you long after you finish it.
